

gether until the casino VIP Manager called to ask Doctor Huang my player where Doctor Huang his gambler was.

So it was that we dutifully descended into the grip of the green felt jungle and on to the VIP baccarat room. "Remember you are a player," we urged Doctor Huang. His wife kissed him and went off shopping, escorted by our colleague The Queen of Clubs, whom we introduced in the Chinese New Year Special.

Doctor Huang swore the oath, "Best Quality Discipline!"

On the Fabulous Las Vegas Strip, normal baccarat playing limits at the first class casinos are usually $100 minimum and $15,000 maximum. Doctor Huang and his casino hosts settled upon adding 2 zeros to each. So here we were sitting with our old pupil in a $10,000 minimum to $1,500,000 maximum game in the most exclusive part of one of the most exclusive VIP baccarat rooms in Bet City. Places where players, seeking the lowest of profiles, must never never never never be seen.

We were unsettled yet felt secure, after all Doctor Huang had come back to us. The casino VIP Manager apparently did not like the look of us. "Who is this?" he demanded to know. But Doctor Huang smiled, "If you must know, he is a close friend who came along to track the shoes for me. You understand, my hands are insured by Lloyds of London, and I am specifically forbidden to use them for nonessential tasks such as tracking shoes." That was that.

Everyone settled down to the business of the evening, with Doctor Huang whispering to himself, "Best Quality Discipline!"

As he knows, Best Quality Discipline is a two faced coin. One face reads, "Be cautious, act with care!" And the other face reads, "Venture, have confidence!" Fully and completely re-immersed in all of the Baccarat Great Learning, Doctor Huang could once again read the face of the coin from across the baccarat room!

To make a long story short, Doctor Huang amazed his baccarat room hosts with his new-found playing ability. He would not permit us to disclose his winnings, but he specifically encouraged us to tell of these glad happenings. His wife agreed, she asked us, "Why any Chinese gamblers?"

All of the baccarat room staff having been duly and generously tipped, the casino VIP Manager congenially accepted his resounding defeat. "Promise me that you will not lose our money Down Under next weekend," said he, and the good doctor smiled and made that promise, a promise that he can most assuredly keep, now that he has come back to the Baccarat Great Learning.

With the kind permission of Doctor Huang, let us now review the 2 most interesting playing situations of his come back weekend.

Those who have mastered the Baccarat Great Learning understand that it is possible for a shoe to reveal absolutely no bets! This so-called "perfect shoe" is a shoe that never reveals casino VIP Manager smiled at me, and we smiled back. "You must be patient," quietly said we. "Look, there is sufficient increasing improbability now, bet much more on this hand," we urged the frowning doctor, who immediately complied and piled up white chips on the player bet. And he proclaimed to the dealer, "I will bet on the player, until your banker run breaks, as many hands as it takes!"

Doctor Huang was full of contrition, and his repentance was welcomed. A natural for the player with the Queen of Clubs and her 9 was far superior to an inconsequential banker hand in diamonds! He hugged us gleefully and repeated over and over, "Best Quality Discipline!"

Holding to the tightest threshold, the good doctor saw only one more opportunity, on the hand after the 3rd decision in the 13th column of the shoe fragment. That very big winning banker bet prompted a stunned and astonished casino VIP Manager to herd us back to the VIP baccarat room, away from the small crowd of onlookers that had gathered to see the tower of white chips rising from the green felt.

We were happy. All things being equal, never never never never play a shoe fragment. Doctor Huang, being a high profile VIP, had a unique opportunity to pause a shoe and collect accurate data on a highly improbable pattern of decisions compressed into very few columns. But like all casino VIP guests, he had previously paid dearly for it! We seek neither the high profile nor the drama!

It was quite a weekend. Thank you, Doctor Huang, for coming back to the Baccarat Great Learning!
